THE COPPERHEADS TRANSPIXED. Every loyal man must admire the mode ou President has of dealing with those men who are deluded enough to suppose that they have inaugurated a scheme for hoodwinking this and, by a piece of political jugglery patting themselves in power. The Copper-head Vallandigham, after outraging all decency for two years, was quietly set over the lines to pursue his chosen mission among the rebels. This was rather a new turn of affairs, and did not exactly suit the junta of his lik. Now they faucied they had a clever handle, and eagerly seized it and fell to work. The game was, to profit by the well-known jealousy of the American people for their just rights under the Con and laws of the land, and by the vigilance with which these right where wetched and guarded, which rights they proclaimed to have been struck down in the person of their comrade and nomines for Governor of Ohio. Resolu-tions were secondingly thundered at the t from Albany, and more resolutions from Ohio, backed by a committee of Copperheads assuming to speak for a great polluted by their residence, and to charge the President with having issuited the State they so audsciously presume to represent. Voices are heard in New York city and Chicago, cheering on this execrable business. They chuckle at the idea of putting the President to the toriare on the grid-iron of popular rights. But when they come to handle him, he speedily transackes them after this manner, as much as to say, "Tou, sirs, present to represent the rights of the chilsan straked down by me. Every one knows that citizen opposed and still opposes the war, by all the means in his power. To oppose the war, by all the means in his power. To oppose the war is to aid the eveny. This is of will sendency. My duty is to arrest such tendency, to the extent of my ability. I have undertaken to do this, by setting a man over the lines. Tou come to me as intercessors for him, or for rights professedly represented.

Gen. Blunt took no train, and will cross the Arkansas and effer battle.

The Fright as Louisville.

Louisville, July 7.—The excitement which prevailed last evening, and culminated in turning a large portion of our people into the streets between 19 and 1 o'clock this morning, was occasioned by the firing of camon as Juffaronville, on the Indiana shore, about midnight, by order of Adjutant General Noble, who, without previous consultation with our authorities, took this means to around the Indiana Legion, whose services, it was thought, would be immediately required.

this means to arouse the Indiana Legion, whose services, it was thought, would be insmediately required.

The firing impressed our people with the idea that an artillery conflict was progregaling between Morgan's and our force a short die tance south of the city. Less evening rumors prevailed of the advance of Morgan's forces to Sheepperdeville. These rumors sould not be traced to any authentic source, but telegraphic communication between Sirve. and Shepperdeville ceasing last evening, the excitement became more intensified and continued through the night. All is quiet this morning. Probably none of Morgan's forces have been this side of Bardstown. They are now said to be retreating.

A Semestion Story Exposed.

St. Louis, July 6.—The dispatch sent West this morning, purporting to be a special from Cairco to the New York Sunday Mercury, relative to an engagement between Johnston's and Granti's forces, is a base fabrication. No such dispatch was sent from Cairc. It is more than probable, that the dispatch from Des Moines relative to the movement of Indians is also bogus.

LOUISVILLE, July 8.—The steamers Alice Dean and the J. S. McComb were captured by about two bundred rebels at Brandenburg, Ky., yesterday afternoon. Gunboats in pursuit.

Where woman's trembling arms enfold
The lov'd one, ere he seeks the fight;
Or breathes the vow, or haves the blade
For all of earth that man holds good.
That the green hills where he hath play'd
May drink his sacrifice of blood.

Behold how gloriously he dies! The prize is gained for which he strove, And the stained turf whereon he lies, Is softer than the arms of love; He lifts his weak head from the soil, And the bigthe bugie peals through air, And thank for victory, to God, Commingle with his dying prayer!

The Second Vermont Brigade.

This brigade of nine months' troops were present at the bittles of Gettysberg, on Theraday and Friday, July 2d and 3d. The Thirenth, Fourteenth and Sixteenth regiments were actively engaged; the Tweifth and Fitteenth were detailed to guard an ammunition train. The three regiments engaged, although nover before under fire, fought with the most desperate and determined heroism against the repeated assaults of the eneury, and under the murderons fire of more than fitty places of artitlery. They captured a rebol battery, three stands of colors, a large number of prisoners, with other trophies on Friday, and lost 555 officers and men, in killed, wounded and missofficers are supplied to the control of the co
